Redford, Henry Brown, Fred Henniger, Ben C. Lake, Miss Emma Cumpster and Lillian Yigman. The Memphis and Charleston road reports to-day for transaction of business, steamer Belle of Memphis from St. Louis passed down last night.

MAON, Ga., Oct. 21.—There is not a single case of yellow fever in the State. Frost has extended all over the State and all danger is removed along the lines of western travel.

CHATTANOOGA, Oct. 21.—For 24 hours ending 4 p. m., 3 deaths and 7 new cases, 5 colored. Refugees continue to return in spite of all warnings and an increase of new cases is expected. The weather warm and cloudy.

MOBILE, Oct. 21.—From noon until Sunday noon there were 3 deaths and 7 new cases here and from Sunday noon until 12 o'clock today one death and 11 new cases. 40 cases are now under treatment.

Washington Notes.

Telegraph to the News.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Reports show that Spotted Tail and his people have been publicly removed to their new Indian reservation. Therefore there is no fear of them.

Special deputies sent hither report from Yachin and Davis counties, North Carolina, that they have captured seven illicit stills and fixtures, nearly 8,000 gallons of mash and a quantity of whiskey.

A case was argued before the Supreme Court to-day, from the Circuit Court of St. Louis, Missouri, involving the question of the validity of the revenue bond scrip of that State, issued in 1873, in exchange for bonds of the Blue Ridge Railroad Company, guaranteed by the State.

In the Supreme Court to-day Dupont Guernsey, of America, Ga., and Thos. McCartney, of Mobile, were admitted to practice.

Jeremiah Cooper, Wm. Irwin, Thos. S. Sumner, John P. McGraw, John P. Schraggs, William F. Gary and Wade H. Henderson, were to-day each appointed revenue storekeeper and gauger for the sixth district of South Carolina; and John P. Adams storekeeper and gauger for the sixth district of North Carolina.

The Attorney General decides, with reference to the status of the District of Columbia 3-65 bonds, that they are not United States bonds, although they are bonds for the payment of the debt of the United States and are fully responsible, and the payment of which the United States cannot avoid without repudiation.

Storm Brewing.

By Telegraph to the News.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—A synopsis for the past 24 hours.—A storm of considerable energy, not reported from the West Indies, is now east of Key West. The pressure is highest on the North Carolina coast, and is rising rapidly west of the Mississippi river. The temperature has risen east of Mississippi river and with westerly winds, except in the South Atlantic States, where they are northwesterly. The air is much colder in the Northwest, with northwesterly winds. Clear weather has prevailed, except in the Northwest and Florida.

Probable Effect of the Great Bank Failure.

The Effect of the Fall Election on the Currency Question.

There seems to be a grave misapprehension in the public mind as to the purport of the late vote in Ohio. The Philadelphia Times says:

"It is given out by partisan organs that a great victory for hard money, for honest money, has been achieved by the October elections. Just the reverse is the plain truth, and business men of all parties would do well to look the situation squarely in the face."

Ohio has voted very largely against hard money, against resumption of national banks, and in favor of an increased volume of the currency. True, the Republican ticket was groomed by hard money and resumption leaders, and it has been successful by a few thousand plurality out of more than half a million votes, but the two opposing parties, both of which were for soft money and plenty of it, polled a large majority of the whole vote cast, and the majority of the Congressmen elected are out and soft money men. Even the Republican vote can't be counted for hard money, for the same party showed the softest money ideas last year and since the election of the year, and it would have been soft money and agrarian this year but for its defeat in 1877.

Indiana is soft money all over—certainly by a three-fourths vote of all her citizens were to vote on the direct issue. Two of the three parties were unqualifiedly for the most inflated sort of inflation, and they cast from 50,000 to 60,000 majority of the votes polled, while the Republican party made the feeblest sort of a pretense of favoring hard money, and did its level best to keep close enough to the Greenback theory to hold its Greenback worshippers in the party lines. There isn't much of a choice laid out for the voters, and there is just next to none at all in Indiana.

Iowa, with her 60,000 Republican majority on a fair test and a full vote, has not the issue of hard money, but has elected the Republicans of either Pennsylvania, Ohio or Indiana, and it has cost the party two of its Congressmen and whittled the majority down to almost nominal figures on the State ticket. That admission will temper the hardness of those who have saved their necks by a narrow chance, and while they will go over to inflation, they will go half way when the issue comes up, and will not make any party these days will stand anything but sacrificing their success to principle.

Pennsylvania and New York will both vote soft money in November. The matter will be a matter of course for the Democrats to take in the State ticket. If Republicanism wins in Pennsylvania it must be by a plurality, with a large majority of the votes cast against soft money, and the popular vote will be largely soft money of various shades. In New York the popular vote will be against enforced resumption and in favor of a change in our banking system and of an increase of the national currency. The popular vote will be largely soft money of various shades. In New York the popular vote will be against enforced resumption and in favor of a change in our banking system and of an increase of the national currency. The popular vote will be largely soft money of various shades.

Three things may be regarded as settled beyond the control of the November elections. First, both branches of the next Congress will be distinctly Democratic; second, they will both be against the present financial policy of the administration; and third, they will each divide both parties on the question of resumption and of an increase of the national currency. The popular vote will be largely soft money of various shades. In New York the popular vote will be against enforced resumption and in favor of a change in our banking system and of an increase of the national currency. The popular vote will be largely soft money of various shades.

All danger of repudiation in any form and of illimitable irredeemable paper may be regarded as past. Those were the exorcismes of the popular revolt, and they will perish with the present financial policy and the sooner money centers appreciate the fact, the better it will be for all classes, including themselves. Resumption will be a thing of the past, and the question will be of the kind of money that the country will use. Banking will be made free in fact as it is now only in name; its onerous taxes will be repealed; the machinery for money to reach solvent business will be cleared up; and a national currency will take the place of bank notes, an interest on bonds deposited in circulation will be suspended, but "flat money" will be unheard of after this vote, and the specie standard will be re-affirmed as the unalterable law of the Republic. There will be a hard battle on the question of a legal tender currency, with the issue doubtful, but we regard all other changes herein indicated as inevitable. So much, and no more, will be the harvest of the pernicious sowing and tempestuous watering of the soft-money idea, and the question will disappear from our political platform, and properly gradually come to be the history and progress of the American people."

The Georgia Fair.

Color-Blindness.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat.
It has been lately asserted by a writer who has kept a record of accidents by lambs, that the color-blindness of a large number of them are directly attributable to color-blindness. This is probably true, and thus all the theories relative to color which are now discussed with so much learning and ingenuity become of very little practical importance to every one, as the inability of an engineer on a railway train or a pilot upon a vessel to distinguish accurately between two signal colors may at any moment cost many lives. From the last report of the State board of health of Massachusetts points in very strong terms to the peril arising from this malady, which often exists even when utterly unsuspected, and which is much more common than it has generally been supposed to be. In Edinburgh, Dr. Wilson examined 1,164 persons, and found 5.6 per cent. thus affected. Dr. Jeffries found 5 per cent. of the students of the University of London and the Boston Institute of technology, and Professor Helmholz, who has paid very close attention to the subject, admits a similar proportion as the result of his own inquiries. Dr. Wilson, a learned physician, explains the fact that many who are really color-blind can distinguish between red and green lanterns by saying that it is the intensity of the light, and not its hue, that gives them the impression of red or green. The color-blind, as well as the normal eye, of the deepest or darkest shade, and red the most brilliant. Dr. Jeffries also points out that the same light is brighter to one healthy eye in repose than to one fatigued eye, and thus any slight, which, under ordinary circumstances, is the most perfect, may be occasionally liable to temporary derangement.

This theory was first investigated scientifically in 1794 by the famous English chemist, Dalton, who was himself red-blind, and left directions for a post mortem examination. But it has lately been the subject of very extensive researches. Dr. Jeffries reminds us that the Swedish, Russian and Bavarian governments have ordered all persons employed upon the railroads to be tested for color-blindness, and that alone sixty out of 1,800 were proved to be affected. In England and in our own country but few steps comparatively speaking have been taken in this connection, although Professor Tyndall and others have directed the weight of their authority to the older views of Dalton and the later expressions of Helmholz. The misfortune is said by most physicians to be incurable, but a great French physician, Lyons this year, says it can be overcome by a systematic exercise of the eye upon colors. The simplest and best test is still that practiced twenty years ago by Wilson, of Edinburgh. It consists solely in directing the patient to read a list of words, each word being preceded by a colored dot, and the patient to match words of different shades.

Merrimon vs. Vance.

Rockingham South.
It seems that Senator Merrimon has entered upon a regular canvass of the State, with a view to securing his reelection. This is a novel proceeding in North Carolina, and it remains to be seen how much avail it will prove to Mr. Merrimon. Do what he will, say what he may, we remain firm in the opinion that the people's wishes will be carried out by the Legislature which is to assemble in Raleigh next January, and Z. B. Vance elected to the United States Senate, and Mr. Merrimon remanded to the shades of private life.

The Campaign in North Carolina.

Washington Correspondent Baltimore Gazette.
The Democrats of North Carolina living in the Greensboro' district, now represented by General Scales, want to be on their guard against a snare in the grass by the name of Irwin. At an appropriate of the Forty-fourth Congress General Scales gave this fellow Irwin, who hails from his town of Greensboro, the position of messenger to his committee on Indian affairs. It appears that he was not so constituted as to be able to stand properly. He fell into bad habits and the chairman was forced to present him with a ticket of leave. Since then he has been breathing out vengeance against Scales. Having been of good Democratic principles, he was allowed to frequent the Congressional committee rooms and there he took advantage of the courtesy shown him to send Democratic documents to Republicans in Indiana. When this was learned brother Irwin was questioned as to his conduct, he was so scared, he became a constant habitue of Republican quarters, where some made overtures and he apparently took into free-fellowship by the Secretary who thought he saw a way to his ruin. The next act of Mr. Irwin was to appear one evening recently at the Baltimore Convention and deliver a grand old speech of money and claiming that the Republican committee had given him $1,000 to take down into Scales' district, for the purpose of giving Irwin a large vote. The result, so it is stated by an eye-witness of the scene, was signed by one Osburn, of New York. Rutherford County.

Sabbath School Celebration.—Clergymen, Lawyers and Doctors at Rutherfordton.
Correspondence of the News.
RUTHERFORD, Oct. 21.—The county seat of Rutherford county is an antiquated town of about seven hundred inhabitants, with narrow streets, and sidewalks lined with beautiful Aspen shade trees. Being situated on an elevated, inland peninsula, nature is the only scavenger, and any system of modern sewerage would be an anachronism. The location was originally selected "with an eye single to the convenience of a bar-room," but a change has evidently come over the moral "spirit of their dream," for it is impossible for a way-drinking man, however thirsty, to get a drink. Although destitute of railroads, its people are intelligent and refined, without those new-fangled ideas of civilization which characterize the modern town. A stranger within her gates receives the same old-fashioned and old bellum welcome. The men are brave and generous to a fault; the women fair as the most vivid imagination could picture an hour.

The merchants, notwithstanding the hard times, seem to be doing a good business, and attractive, well-selected stocks are displayed in every quarter. Among the most energetic and flourishing, we notice the family grocers; R. C. Bennett, general merchandise; J. M. Crater, general merchandise and drugs; Carpenter & Lee, general merchandise; H. Gilkey & Tomlinson, family grocers; R. C. Hawkins, restaurant.

"The Grange Manufacturing Company," managed by that clever and accomplished gentleman, Wm. S. Guthrie.

The Bar is composed of Messrs. Churchill & Whitesides, G. W. Logan & Son, Jas. A. Forney, Charlie Carson, G. W. Suttle and M. H. and T. B. Justice. They are mostly young men, and have made enviable reputations.

The clergy are far above the average, being loved and honored by all: Rev. E. A. Osborn, Protestant Episcopal; Rev. G. F. Round, Methodist Episcopal; Rev. Wm. M. McGilvray, Presbyterian; Rev. C. B. Justice, Baptist.

Drs. J. M. Craton, J. N. Harris, Oliver Hicks and J. L. Rucker, administrators of the afflicted, and are an honor to the profession.

A flourishing school, under the auspices of Prof. Willie Lee, a graduate of distinction from Wofford College, is the pride of the village.

The country people are not surpassed by any as a reading people, nearly every family taking one or more newspapers. They discuss politics, religion and the financial question with equal ease and interest. The dirty, communistic sheet, the N. Y. Advertiser, is a great favorite with the Radicals, who are in the minority in this county, and the way that they kneel at the shrine of Peter Cooper is amusing to the Democrats.

Saturday was warm and gloriously bright, and anticipating the lovely character of the day, fully one thousand people participated in the Sabbath School celebration at Centennial church. The large and spacious hall had been decorated with exquisite taste by Miss Mattie Neighbors, a blushing blonde of "sweet sixteen."

The "Savior" lived in large, rustic letters, surrounded by a garland of beautiful flowers, surrounded the speaker's stand. Wreaths of evergreen hung in graceful festoons about the windows. The motto "Love" resting gracefully under the Star of Hope made many young hearts beat faster, and many eyes grew brighter, for Cupid, with his little bow and arrows, was there doing his deadly work. The speaker acquitted themselves with much credit.

The ladies of the vicinity had prepared a super-abundance of all the delicacies that heart could wish. And by invitation of Mr. J. Paschal Allen, the Urbane Superintendent, the crowd joined the march, under the Centennial Banner, to the long tables which were groaning under the weight of good things. The affair was enjoyed by all, and will be remembered as a happy and successful one. A casual observer could not have failed to be impressed with the gallantry of the gentlemen and the grace and beauty of the ladies.

The Old North State.

Norfolk Virginian.
A visit to the State Fair at Raleigh has occupied us two or three days very pleasantly and profitably. We have seen the most beautiful of the Old State, a commonwealth of great material resources, but we have now seen with our eyes the substantial evidences of her wealth and prosperity. In her beautiful capital city we found gathered the representatives of the Old State—the State-men of national and State reputation—in all the associations of life. Her sons and daughters seemed to have come up for a family reunion, to renew the ties of friendship and to strengthen the State pride which is so justly characteristic of the Old North State.

North Carolina is the only State in the Union, as we are in the States, that has a competent authority, that fills all the blanks of the Agricultural Department at Washington, producing every article contained in its tables.

Washington Post.
Among the minor wires which are now being manipulated by Secretary Sherman in his preparation for resumption, none have been more effective or more immediate in their action than the order requiring the National banks to pay the express charges (in shipping of bank notes) to the Treasury for redemption. While it was not the sole cause of the recent recovery of the fifteen millions of greenbacks in Treasury would materially assist redemption and would by $600,000,000, the total sum that could be presented for redemption. The figures show that this is being rapidly effected. The law requires the deposit of five per cent. of the National bank circulation in greenbacks with the Treasury to meet the expenses of the redemption and renewing of these notes. As the bank notes are sent in greenbacks are returned in exchange. When the entire amount of the bank notes is in circulation, a point which is now being rapidly attained, the five per cent. fund, which amounts to fifteen millions, lying at the Treasury, withdrawn from circulation. On the day (October 1st) that this order went into effect, there was to the

The Campaign in North Carolina.

Washington Correspondent Baltimore Gazette.
The Democrats of North Carolina living in the Greensboro' district, now represented by General Scales, want to be on their guard against a snare in the grass by the name of Irwin. At an appropriate of the Forty-fourth Congress General Scales gave this fellow Irwin, who hails from his town of Greensboro, the position of messenger to his committee on Indian affairs. It appears that he was not so constituted as to be able to stand properly. He fell into bad habits and the chairman was forced to present him with a ticket of leave. Since then he has been breathing out vengeance against Scales. Having been of good Democratic principles, he was allowed to frequent the Congressional committee rooms and there he took advantage of the courtesy shown him to send Democratic documents to Republicans in Indiana. When this was learned brother Irwin was questioned as to his conduct,
